

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension has created a new monthly web-based program to help acreage owners manage their rural living environment. The website, at <http://acreage.unl.edu>, offers new content each month.

The site also will include a monthly “show,” with video offerings on landscapes, water resources, keeping animals, attracting wildlife, managing pests and weeds, producing food on the acreage, entrepreneurial considerations, and opportunities for youth.

For the full story, subscribe to our e-Editions for $29/year.

Call 352-4311 for details.