

The top high school girls volleyball teams in Nebraska take to the court to determine which schools will lay claim to the state championship trophies on “NSAA State Volleyball Championships” airing live statewide on Saturday, Nov. 12, on NET1 and NET-HD.

This annual championship competition will be broadcast from Grand Island’s Heartland Event Center with sportscaster Larry Punteney calling the action.

The championship match-ups begin with the Class C-1 finals at 9 a.m. CT, followed at 11 a.m. CT by the Class D-2 contest and the Class A championship match at 1 p.m. CT.

The finals action picks up again at 4:30 p.m. CT with the Class C-2 match, followed by the Class B competition at 6:30 p.m. CT and, wrapping up the day’s action, the Class D-1 finals at 8:30 p.m. CT.

The volleyball championships will also be webcast live in Flash on NET’s website (net.Nebraska.org).
