

Olympic medalists and Nebraska natives Jordan Larson and Curt Tomasevicz will host sport clinics in Nebraska over five consecutive days in June as part of the LiveWellNebraska.com Tour.

North Platte will host the second clinic on Tuesday, June 25. Both athletes will conduct clinics at Mid Plains Community College at 601 W. State Farm Road.

All youths ages 5-18 are invited to participate in the clinics. The cost is $20 per person and all who register by June 20 are guaranteed a t-shirt and an autographed photo.

Larson starred in volleyball at Nebraska and was a starter on the silver medal winning U.S. Olympic volleyball team in London. Tomasevicz played football at Nebraska and was part of the gold medal winning bobsled team.

“We’re excited to share two of the most decorated athletes this state has ever produced with the communities on the tour, said Scott Ash, Nebraska Sports Council director of operations.

“To earn a medal in the Olympics is such a huge deal and our young people have an incredible opportunity to learn from the best.”
